

Peace Day Hawaii 2014 celebrates its 7th year -
"Play for Peace" Honoring Distinguished Peacemakers
Roy & Kathy Sakuma!!

Peace Day Hawaii 2014 will be celebrated Sunday, September 21st from 10-2pm, at the University of Hawai'i College of Tropical Agriculture and Human Resources Urban Garden Center, Pearl City. This year's theme is "Creating Cultures of Peace through the Arts" in support of arts education and engagement in artistic activities and self-expression to cultivate experiences of inner peace and freedom, creative learning with others, enjoyment of beauty in nature, and appreciation of the cultural arts for peace around the world.

We are privileged this year to honor Roy and Kathy Sakuma as the Distinguished Peacemakers 2014 for their spirited commitment to peace education as music teachers and community peace builders throughout the Hawaiian Islands. Since the 1970s they have inspired and encouraged students of all ages to believe in themselves finding inner peace through the joy of music through the ukulele. The ceremony program is from 11-12:30pm.

Please join us and bring your ukulele (or other instrument), to sing and play together for peace! Free entry, entertainment & fun for all ages. Seating is limited, so we ask that you bring a matt for outdoor seating and sun protection as needed.
